Assistant to the Financial Director

Columnist/ Entrepreneur, New York

Guyanese American entrepreneur Edgar Henry has lived in New York for more than 40 years. He had a 12-year association with a Greek shipping company Hellenic Lines Ltd. which served the Red Sea, Middle East, East Africa and Pakistan. Operating successfully as a licensed real estate broker in New York, he also ventured into the optical industry and still serves the Caribbean community at ENG Caribbean Vision Center in Brooklyn. Aware of the importance of communication systems to the cultural Caribbean-American community, he established Sterling Communications Network in 1993, broadcasting “Calling the Caribbean” on WNJR Radio, 1430 AM. Since 2003, he has been part owner of the popular Caribbean Diaspora newspaper, “Caribbean Impact.” He is currently the editor of the New York Guyana Folk Festival magazine and Assistant Treasurer on the executive board of the Guyana Cultural Association (GCA) of NY. As Music Master he also teaches music at the annual summer GCA workshop series. Additionally, Edgar is involved in community and philanthropic activities both in the United States and Guyana. He is the past President of the Flatbush Avenue Business Improvement District, a position he has held for over 25 years.
